Phạm Gia Khiêm

2026

Hello ——— there,

I'm Gia Khiem, a graphic designer with a desire to explore the amazing world of culture and emotions through the aesthetics of graphic design.

Based in HCMC, Vietnam. I was always surrounded by the hectic life of the busy streets and people of lovely Sai Gon. Through which the love to capture and recreate my imagination grew ever stronger.

With experience in social graphic design, and the eagerness to dive deeper into the field of graphics, I would love to work in branding projects to showcase my love, knowledge and ability in graphic design and culture as a whole.

I (like to think that I) am good at creating designs that dont fit inside ordinary social & cultural norms, with niche stories behind.

Packaging design

A personal project, illustrate luxury and intergrate Japanese culture into the design. With different design for each type of matcha indicating their unique purpose, yet they still come together as a whole pack.

PREPARATIONS

	gently scoop 1g (½ tsp) into your chawan, honoring the craftmanship in every grain add 60ml water at 175F, letting the warmth awaken the matcha's vibrant essence use a chasen bamboo whisk until a delicate froth crowns the surface

THE SPIRITS OF UJI

In the mist-shrouded hills of Uji, where dawn's golden light kisses the earth, Zen artisans have perfected matcha for centuries. Each leaf, hand-picked with reverence, is transformed into an emerald elixir—an art form embodying purity and harmony. At SunLeaf, we carry this sacred legacy to your cup, inviting you to savor the whisper of tradition in every sip.

Backed by the Satoen Group's legacy of trust, heart, wisdom, and exquisite quality — SunLeaf brings the true spirit of Japanese matcha to your cup, and to millions of new devotees across America.
